

ABOUT US

South Carolina Rural Water Association (SCRWA) is a nonprofit organization representing rural systems throughout the State of South Carolina regarding drinking water and wastewater needs. The association is governed by a volunteer Board of Directors comprised of distinguished members of the water and wastewater industries. Active members consist of public and non-public water and wastewater systems.

Our purpose is to ensure – through education and training – that rural residents, towns, and communities in South Carolina are supplied with clean water.

MEMBERSHIP

The South Carolina Rural Water Associations Vendor Membership is for companies doing business in the water and wastewater industry. This partnership provides and promotes SCRWA in representing the rural and small system industry. By joining SCRWA your support helps secure the financial resources for training and technical assistance, which the majority of small systems could not afford independently. These programs educate boards and operational personnel to properly operate and maintain their systems, which results in the purchase of products and services.

LACI

SCRWA has established a Legislative monitoring service to keep you informed on what issues are being considered by your governing legislative officials and what their potential impact will be on your company or town. The SCRWA LACI Program is 100% supported through donations from the membership of SCRWA. These funds are used to monitor and keep us advised of legislative activities that impact the water and wastewater industry in SC.
